

What a timely God we serve...

I have been under a weight for more than 2/3 of my life and it has finally come full circle, where God has specifically explained to me what I was under. Now is the full of Joy recovery stage, where some things will have to be cut off and other things lay to rest. Your prayers have broken through to heaven and cleared up the cloud above my head.

I buried myself in technical books of many sorts, not that I keep any of it on the surface of my head. One thing I have learned is that it is not important to know everything, but instead to know where the right information is stored and how to access it. Forgive me if I mix simple and complex words or information in a conversation. It has no specific agenda...

What then is my greatest joy, but when you or God has faith in me. Then can I feel loved and cherished since I am deathly afraid of losing face with God, not that I will not sin or have not, but that I may turn away from all the love and understanding he has shown me for so much of my life.

As for now understanding my specific vulnerability, enjoy your choice, as it is no lie. I love God alone and if he is in you, then that is he whom I love first, then you. Regardless, I will respect you.

First a few things that I have learned about myself... I do not like to be taunted at all by anyone under any circumstances, no matter how well meaning. Reason being, it is my direct connect to a very violent side of me that has been under God's hand since he came into my life to live. I have seen what its effects and results were and I want to leave it under guard. It has been replaced by a very youthful, jovial mannerism that some seems to think is too effeminate, how wrong is that assumption... I have seen that guarded side surface when a man chose to taunt my spiritual brother recently, to which I asked God to deal with the situation. As for my spiritual sisters, I am no different and thank God that he has been direct at protecting them. As for those who think all of this is unnecessary to mention, thank you too for your spirit and purpose in Christ.

So what of the weight you ask, and I would love to explain it specifically, but will do it in the way common to my heart and head. It was an issue where one at was allowed to be spoiled to the point, where the same defrauded a well meaning authority figure, who in turn made life (seem) impossible. Even to the point that an early birth of an untimely set of personal investments wreaked havoc on my life and many around me, driving me to my edge, yet was God gracious in each case.

God having removed that particular burden from my heart that I had for so many years marinated will instead use it as a tool of teaching and glory unto himself.

As for one situation that I can explain in some detail, I have a type of structure and persona that certain men seem to think is gang based, and if I ever go to the movies dual or single, I get taunted sometimes to the point that it seems impossible to allow God his timely hand. However, to avoid that, I simply do not go to the movie house unless I am in a much larger group.
